使用方法

1. 一次完成，不提前讲答案或翻译题目。
2. 记录用时、是否需要重复说明、是否检查答案。
3. 本题包只测英文基础，不包含数学。
4. 如需完整能力测评，可在小程序直接开始；如需专业分析，再联系顾问。

Part A - Academic language

1. Choose the word closest in meaning to significant. (minor / important / uncertain / temporary)

2. Choose the most formal sentence. (A) Lots of people think it is bad. (B) Many respondents considered the policy ineffective. (C) People were kind of unhappy. (D) Everyone hated it.

3. Correct the error: The information from the two reports do not agree.

4. Complete the sentence: The experiment was repeated ____ the researchers could check whether the result was reliable.

5. Rewrite without using I think: I think schools should provide more quiet study spaces.

6. Combine with a relative clause: The library opened in 1998. The library now serves four neighbourhoods.

7. Replace get better with a precise academic verb: Air quality may get better after traffic is reduced.

8. Write one sentence that presents a counterargument using however or although.

Part B - Reading and evidence

9. Read: A school introduced a phone-free lunch period for one term. A survey found that 64% of students spoke with friends more often, while 21% felt more anxious without access to messages.

Teachers reported fewer lunchtime conflicts, but the survey did not compare results with another school. What was the purpose of the policy?

10. State one reported benefit for students.

11. State one reported concern.

12. What did teachers observe?

13. Why should the 64% figure not be treated as final proof that the policy works everywhere?

14. What additional evidence would make the conclusion stronger?

15. Summarise the passage in no more than 45 words.

16. Write one balanced conclusion supported by the passage.

Part C - Writing and reflection

17. Write 250-320 words: Should schools have a fixed phone-free period every day? Present a clear position, evidence, a counterargument and a conclusion.

18. Alternative topic: A student's progress should be judged by more than examination scores. Discuss.

19. Write 80-100 words describing a difficult academic task: what you tried first, what failed and what you changed.

20. Editing check: remove vague words, verify evidence, vary sentence structure and check paragraph links.
